AROOSTOOK'S SENATORSHIP.

By the report of Legislative proceedings at Augusta, we perceive that every County in Maine is represented in the Senate with the exception of Aroostook. We deem it proper to ask why no member has been awarded a seat from that County. We are of course aware that it is proposed to make a contest for the permanent possession of that seat, but that has to do with the merits of the case and not with the prima facie claim by which every Senator in that body holds his place. The certificate sent to the Secretary of the Senate by the Secretary of State declaring the results of the canvass of returns by the Governor and Council sets forth in each case that those officers found that so and so appeared to have a majority of the legal votes cast. So far as the powers and duties of that canvass are concerned we understand that Mr. Burleigh's majority was certified in precisely the same way as in the case of every other Senator. The appending of the words in his case "No summons was issued," involves an exercise of jurisdiction by the Council on the merits of the case to which the question of eligibility belongs; but his prima facie right to be sworn in upon a certificate of having received a majority of votes canvassed seems to us identical with that of every other Senator now occupying a seat. No one of them holds a seat on the merits, it simply on the apparent evidence of the returns, which in their cases does not happen to be contested. If notice of a contest has been given in Mr. Burleigh's case, the final award is of course, subject to adjudication by the Senate, and we know that he and his friends court the fullest and most exhaustive investigation; but because a contest is threatened we do not see that the ordinary course of proceeding should be set aside or that Aroostook County should be deprived of the right conceded to every other county, of being awarded a seat on the prima facie case presented in the certificate of the canvass by the Governor and Council. We are wrong in the matter we would be glad to be set right, but we can see nothing in this injustice to Mr. Burleigh but an exhibition of complaisance on the part of a large majority to a small political minority. That would be well enough in a matter not involving, as this does, an important principle and serious parliamentary precedent. The Republicans of the State care nothing for the simple numerical addition of one Senator to a body which they overwhelmingly control, nor does Mr. Burleigh, himself, attach a great personal importance to the occupancy of a seat in the Legislature where he has so often served. And, I, it is well known that he would have preferred not to be a candidate. But all these considerations have nought to do with the rights and duties involved in organizing the Senate by the swearing in of members who are regularly certified to have received a majority of votes. We claim that Mr. Burleigh has the same right to be now occupying a seat that has been recognized in the case of any other Senator, and that the matter of contesting his election on the merits comes properly after the swearing in of all persons who are certified to have a prima facie election. We are very sure that the Senate will not be more willing than Mr. Burleigh and his friends to push the investigation of the Aroostook election with the utmost vigor and thoroughness, but the fact that we have a large R. publican majority will not justify a violation of parliamentary rights to please the minority. On the contrary the heavy Republican preponderance removes all pretext for any charge of partisan necessity, that we see no reason for departing in the slightest degree from the plain path of right and duty in securing to Aroostook, the Senatorial representation to which that County is equally with all others, entitled.

BUTLER, PATTERSON AND HAMPTON

(From the N. Y. Times.)

It is again intimated from Washington that Senator Patterson, of South Carolina, is preparing to resign his seat upon condition that the criminal proceedings against him in that State be discontinued. Such action on his part could only be regarded as a signal defeat for Gen. M. C. Butler and a victory for Wade Hampton. There is now no doubt that Patterson's vote to seat "the hero of Hamburg" was given with the distinct understanding that the charges against him be forever buried out of sight in a legislative committee. Butler tried to carry out his part of the bargain. But was prevented by Hampton, who in his usual grandiloquent style declared that he would hear of no compromise with criminals. It is now probable, however, that Patterson will resign in favor of Hampton, the latter will conveniently forget the declaration referred to. Whether or not Patterson will have faith a second time remains to be seen.

THE RUSSIAN LOSSES. The Russian St Petersburg Gazette, noticing the fact that the total number of men who have become non-efficient in the army was, at the last official report, about 70,000, or 20 per cent. of the whole combatant force, remarks that the loss is not very great, when compared with that of previous wars. The battle of Friedland cost the Russians 25,000 men and that of Borodino 50,000. The natural increase of population in Russia amounts in favorable periods to 1,600,000 people of both sexes, and even in unfavorable times, when the number of marriages and births diminishes and the rate of mortality increases, at least one-half of the normal increase is kept up. The number of male births in 1877 will be about 250,000, so that even if Russia were to lose 250,000 men in this war she would not draw on her capital of force as a State. The case is different with France, which has nothing like such an increase of population, even in favorable years, and which loses by epidemics or war not her income but part of her capital, i. e., her population diminishes.

The N. Y. Herald's Washington special gives a report that Gen. B. F. Butler will introduce a resolution in the House on the reassembling of Congress, carefully drawn by capable lawyers, and having the intention to investigate the charges made in Mr. Chandler's recent letter concerning corrupt bargains affecting the Electoral vote.

The whole Democratic party is dancing around the President, and shouting, "O, don't back down! Brace up against your own party and we will support you." The performance bears a marvellous resemblance to a Plate war-dance, executed as a preliminary to a scalping expedition.—N. Y. Tribune.

In stating a few days ago that we believed Mr. Lord was the youngest person ever chosen Speaker of the Maine House, we wrote from the impression of the moment, without referring to the record. The Lewiston Journal, whose editor held the office for two terms, makes the following correction

THE BANGOR WHIG says that the age of Speaker Lord of the Maine House of Representatives is 30, and that he is the youngest person ever elected to that office in this State. The last statement is an error. Hon. Hannibal Hamlin was only 28 when elected Speaker in 1837, and Hon. Charles Andrews the same age when elected in 1842. Several other Speakers were the same age of Mr. Lord, among whom were Hons. John Ruggles, N. Dingley, jr., and probably others. Mr. Blaine was 31 when elected Speaker.

The Boston Advertiser and Journal find that "memorandum" of Senator Sumner's demanding the withdrawal of the British flag from this hemisphere a hard thing to handle. The former does not express any opinion of it while the Journal cautiously remarks that it "at least serves to show that the differences between England and the Administration as expressed in the treaty of Washington, were so slide as to be irreconcilable. That was what the Senate thought when they made a change in the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Our esteemed contemporary the Concord Monitor, in supplying us in advance with a column to credit an article which it finds the honor to copy, makes the following complimentary reference which we value highly as an endorsement by one of the foremost staunch Republican papers of New England

The article on our first page, yesterday, entitled "No Evidence" should have been credited to that able, consistent and thoroughly informed newspaper, THE BANGOR WHIG. In the period of compromise, in which conciliation and abandonment of the principles of National protection, it is refreshing to read the clear and cogent utterances of THE WHIG

The Boston Globe has a Washington special announcing "It is stated here, positively, that Senator Stanley Matthews, on retiring from the Senate, is to have the Mission to Berlin, which is to be kept open for him." What a favorite Matthews.

Those policy organs that made much of the fact that a colored militia company was to call on Gov Vance of North Carolina on New Year's day, are silent as to the reception thereof.

The Mobile (Ala.) Register has renewed the foolish attempt to justify itself for calling ex-President Lincoln "an idiotic buffoon."

The grand specific and cause of the Piles is Costiveness. The Peristaltic Lozenge, by its action on the liver, is important for a cure. Sold by druggists, 1 from 3 to 6 for 10, and sent by a dollar post on receipt of price. Order wherever you can.

DYSPEPSIA

Appears there is a liver or bilious, even the bilious fevers, the pain in the side, the sleepless habit, the extreme debility, is long to be the most part, there is no cure. Within a few days the Peristaltic Lozenge will cure the most aggravated case of dyspepsia, and in a few weeks.

Relaxed bowels, that some gentle laxative, slight stimulant to the system, and the bowels, the intestines, joined with a tonic, that increases the secretions of the liver and gradually strengthens the stomach, and then a tonic to complete the cure. The Peristaltic Lozenge is the most reliable proof of which we are happy to be able to refer those who are disappointed, to the most reliable physicians, who have long used it in their practice, and also to many well-known persons, whom the Peristaltic Lozenges are sold.

These Lozenges will chase the mischief out of the system, and use of those vile Patent Pills, which the country has for years been fed with. They are so agreeable to the taste, and convenient in form, that children eat them readily when rejecting the unpleasant medicines in those symptoms supposed to indicate the presence of worms, they are a proper remedy.

Price 30 and 60 cents. For sale by druggists, or by a dollar on receipt of price in P. O. stamps or money.

The Patent Laws.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. The destruction of the greater number of models in the Patent Office has started a movement among inventors for a radical change in the patent laws. It is claimed that the present cost of obtaining patents is excessive and greatly detrimental to invention and national progress. It is proposed to abolish models, and examination granting a patent to all who apply, as in England, leaving the right for inventions to be contested in the courts. The inventor is to pay the Patent Office for drawings, for printed specifications and the patent, which will average a cost of about five dollars. It is claimed that this reduction would not only greatly induce invention, but will cause introduction in even greater ratio as national progress is dependent upon the number of useful inventions introduced.

The Woman Suffragists.

A caucus of the delegates to the National Woman Suffrage Association was held in the ladies reception room of the Senate today preparatory to the annual convention Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Sara A. The caucus adjourned till Thursday next, when they will take action on the question of being admitted to the floor of the Senate or House, to personally argue their cause. A committee expect to be heard before the Senate committee on elections Friday next. Their object is to secure immediate action of Congress upon the 16th amendment prohibiting States from disfranchising United States citizens on account of sex.

THE INDIAN SERVICE.

The Report made to Secretary Schurz.

WASHINGTON, Jan 7. The report submitted to Secretary Schurz by Joseph K. McCammon of the Department of Justice, Captain Thomas H. Bradley U. S. A., and George M. Lockwood, chief clerk of the Interior Department, the Board of inquiry convened by him in June last to investigate the Indian service, is a very elaborate and voluminous document making 65 printed pages exclusive of testimony. Its conclusions in regard to the charges preferred against the chief clerk of the Indian Office have already been made public through a letter of Secretary Schurz to Mr. Galpin. The Board did not consider the Eastern North Carolina Cherokee matter, which was also specially brought to its attention, that an investigation of the controversy should be made by a court or commission appointed by the President, and that the delay in its settlement had jeopardized the welfare of the Indians.

The difficult nature of the extensive investigation made by the Board, in regard to the general conduct of the service, is indicated in the following statement which occurs in the opening portion of the report on the general subject. With regard to the general service the Board says:

The regulations prescribed by the President for the management of Indian affairs and the directions from the Secretary of the Interior seem to have been absolutely necessary to a full compliance with the law, but no regulations or directions under the statutes have been found by this Board for the control either of the Bureau officials or subordinates in the Indian service here or elsewhere. The instructions, regulations and other advices promulgated by the Commissioner over his own signature have had limited effect not having been rigidly enforced or fully respected. Under the circumstances the fact exists that no Bureau or office of the government has afforded more opportunity for wrongdoing, irregularity or concealment and fraud than has the management of the Indian Bureau and service.

The Board say that during the late administration of the Indian office, the Commissioner and chief clerk with three others namely, stenographer, correspondence clerk and a multi clerk, formed a group which gave direction to all matters of importance, passing through the office, and often acted upon the same by means of personal, or unofficial correspondence. There is no doubt, after considering the evidence, which member of the group yielded, de facto, the greater power or influence over official matters. The evidence of the various witnesses and documentary evidence show that the Commissioner, after making promises or declarations based upon his own conclusions refused to fulfil or execute them, or absolutely departed from his own views in order to satisfy the capriciousness of his chief clerk. This irregularity of correspondence and the relinquishment of authority operated to cover questionable transactions and keep favorite persons in sinecure positions. This correspondence with the fellowship it engendered readily spread throughout the office, and some continuance of it will doubtless exist until removals, reorganize and orders issued to break up the evil.

The Board say they desired to interrogate the commissioner upon sundry matters and otherwise to have the benefit of any statements he might be pleased to make, but it did not urge his request after he wrote the first letter to ascertain conditionally if any evidence had been submitted reflecting on his character as an officer or on the purity and efficiency of his administration of the business of the office. This was considered by the Board as an evasion and no further efforts were made to secure his attendance as a witness. Further in reference to the persons who were immediately associated in the two rooms the evidence shows that the chief clerk was too strong in his attachment and too "bitter as an enemy" to be entrusted with the power and prerogatives that belong to the position of, in other words, was unable to control himself and therefore could not satisfactorily discharge the duties of a high administrative office.

After reciting various instances of loose management on the part of Commissioner Smith and his subordinates the Board remarks "The absence of regulations, systems and methods, the suppression of the charges and specifications, the carrying on of a semi-official correspondence, the careless disposal of papers and records, the relinquishment of authority or the delegation of official power to another, the loss or disappearance of valuable papers, the unwarranted and factious opposition to the Board of Indian Commissioners, the uncertainty for their respective positions of the chief clerk, correspondence clerk and others in the prosecution of the Chief of the Medical Division, the incompetency of the Chief of the Land Division and acting Chief of the Indian Division, the habitual lack of circumspection in the Finance Division, the uselessness without instructions of the force of the Civilization Division and finally the general demoralization of the force of the Bureau throughout the field, afford data from which the late Commissioner could find an abuse.

The report contains the following review of the operations in the New York office; in connection with the annual lettings at New York city for the bulk of supplies for the Indian service a temporary office has been annually established there where bids have been opened, awards made, and supplies inspected and shipped. This office has been in charge of a clerk detailed from the Indian Bureau, with delegated powers to act for the Commissioners in matters of routine and to perform such other duties incident to the office as circumstances might require. The Board has found little to commend in the management of the clerk in charge. During the past two seasons there has been an utter lack of system and of records, a marked inclination to disregard the wishes or directions of the Board of Indian Commissioners and to follow only the opinions of certain of his associates in the Indian Bureau. Neither by business, education or by experience, was he qualified for the duties of the office. The evidence shows that the conduct of this office has been irregular and defective.

The following paragraph is self explanatory: "Agents have disbursed money on account of subsistence for employes without receiving in return payment from employes. In such cases the Indian Bureau has failed to suspend the allowance of such disbursements. It is believed that at many agencies the agents and chief employes use for themselves and families subsistence, supplies purchased for the sole use of the Indians.

It is shown that the powers of contract used are invitations on the part of the Indian Bureau to the commission of fraud by contractors, and that a radical change is imperatively demanded by common sense and the simplest business principles. As an instance of the prevalence of irregularity during the late administration of Indian affairs it is asserted that, so dom, if ever, was a request for a concession made by a contractor or agent refused by the Indian Bureau! This single statement speaks volumes for the weakness or inefficiency, if nothing else, of those to whose care the management of Indian affairs was immediately entrusted.

Details of the King's Condition.

LONDON, Jan. 7. A special from Rome to the Pall Mall Gazette says:

Prof. Baccelli of Rome and Dr. Bruno from Turin, have been summoned for consultation in regard to the condition of the King. The left lower lobe of his right lung is congested, the whole right thorax is affected and there is also intense intercostal neuralgic pain affecting the entire abdomen. This being the second day of the malady it is impossible to predict its issue. The King is in perfect possession of his mental faculties and is desirous of taking the usual part in the direction of affairs. When the news of the King's illness reached the Pope he asked the Cardinal who were present with him what would happen if the Vatican and Quirnal both become vacant.

Recovered.

ROME, Jan. 7—Midnight. The King passed a very good day. His malady has not entered any new phase and the King's general condition is improved. It is declared that the reports of his illness have been exaggerated.

IT IS now an acknowledged fact that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. It has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone, and in others by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

The old supposition that "Consumption is incurable", for many years deterred Physicians from attempting to find a remedy for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without an effort being made to save them from a doom which was considered inevitable.

Dr. Schenck himself was supposed at one time to be at the very gate of death, his Physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate: he was CURED by the aforesaid medicines and afterward enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years. Thousands of people have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Schenck's Almanac, containing a thorough treatise on Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, &c., can be had gratis of any druggist, or of J. H. Schenck & Son, Philadelphia. Full directions for the use of Schenck's medicines accompany each package.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are for sale by all druggists. jan1

ILLNESS OF LUTHER H. EATON, ESQ. We have hitherto refrained from public reference to the illness of Luther H. Eaton, Esq., from motives of delicacy in view of his sensitive physical condition. We regret to state that his illness has become so critical as to excite the gravest apprehensions of his friends and to make a notice of the fact in our columns a matter of propriety. Mr. Eaton has been apparently so robust until within a short time, that his sudden decline under the influence of an insidious malady has proved a severe shock to all who knew him. An active, warm-hearted man, his circle of friends and acquaintances has been large and their attachment earnest and sincere. We can hardly realize that the friend who was recently so actively participating in public and social affairs has been so rapidly enfeebled, and we join in the universal sympathy which is felt for him and his sorrowing family, with the hope that there may yet be some possible change for the better.

Meeting of the "Board of Trade."

The meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon was attended by the following gentlemen: Messrs. O. W. Merrill, J. P. Bass, G. W. Ladd, R. S. Morison, J. Fenno, J. D. Warren, R. W. Kimball, M. Schwartz and Isaac R. Clark. Vice President Warren presided and R. W. Kimball was elected Secretary pro tem. After the meeting was called to order the Secretary read a copy of the charter of the Bath Board of Trade.

On motion of G. W. Merrill it was voted that the Board apply for a charter from the Legislature with power to take property by purchase, bequest or otherwise to the amount of fifty thousand dollars.

On motion of J. Fenno the act of incorporation was laid on the table for one week.

A letter from M. R. Fletcher, of Lake Village, N. H., in relation to the manufacture of pulp was read, and on motion of J. P. Bass it was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Merrill and Fenno, who are to report at the next meeting.

A series of resolutions were then offered by J. P. Bass, and after considerable discussion the following resolution was passed by a vote of four to two:

Resolved, That we urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the immediate remonetization of silver, and that the coinage be free and unlimited of gold, and of the standard value of the dollar of our fathers.

The meeting then adjourned till next Monday.

☞ The Editor of THE WHIG AND COURIER wishes to call the particular attention of our merchants, capitalists and business men generally, to the remarkable proceedings reported above as having been taken by the "Bangor Board of Trade." That four persons, two of them active Democratic politicians and inflationists, should assume to speak as "a Board of Trade" for Bangor, in urging Congress to force a 90 cents dollar upon the country as a legal tender, would be amusing in its absurdity, if the use of the representative title were not likely to give it a serious although unwarranted significance abroad. Our citizens are aware that an attempt was made some years since to organize a Board of Trade for the furtherance of several public enterprises then undergoing discussion, and that for a time quite a number of our leading citizens evinced an interest in the proceedings. The management, however, soon caused general dissatisfaction, and in a short time it ceased to be recognized as a

TONY'S CHRISTMAS TREE

BY MARY T. STILWELL

It was a driving snow storm, even the window blinds were full of it, for the wind had blown the clinging shrubs up under the slats. The juniper and hemlock trees were weighed down to the ground while from the top of the bare locust tree an empty bird's nest hung swaying by one slimy twig and the wet snow fell on one side of the gaunt leafless tree making the black branches stand out in bold relief against the sky. People in the streets clapped their hands to their ears, though it was not a cold storm, only the first of the winter—and the horses that drew the sleigh slow rapidly part with their tails brought stiff by the wind.

Two children stood at the window of a large handsome house watching the falling flakes; the little girl rather dolefully exclaimed "Now we can't go out for ever so long and I have not got half my Christmas yet, for I was going to buy for myself. It is real disagreeable of the snow to come just to-day isn't it, Tony."

Master Tony drummed with his fingers on the window pane (which he had been expressly forbidden to do, as it left marks) and responded "Yes, horrid—and nurse is as cross as two sticks when we stay in the house. I say—and I've saved ever so much money of mine myself—

Tony looked at the children out there, broad Nina, what do you suppose I've got? The little girl looked at her curiously, and the little boy exclaimed "Now, what do you say? Why, I've got a tambourine!"

Nina looked and stopped drumming on the window pane. "I dare say they are very nice, and I'm sure they are, but there is never any use in your getting presents, I'm sure, for you never do anything with them, I suppose you think it is fine to be rich and have everything you want, but I'm sure I'd rather be poor and have some one to love me, though I'm sure I'm very kind to my doll, and I'll hold the second one smaller than the one we had last year while the poor little girl to-day could not have passed more than five years in this inhospitable world. He had managed to get his little body through a pair of trousers which he had pieced out with a flannel petticoat, and a pair of boots that at one time had been the property of a tall man, but which now, with the addition of a pair of stockings, for hat, he was happy. He had on a pair of soft eyes and fringed lids on which tears had frozen like beads. The little face was very pretty and dirty, and the mouth was strong, though it looked as if it had been used to crying. The two children could come from quite opposite directions, the one from the home of sunshine and flowers, the other from the shadow of a hovel, and yet, as they met, must, in spite of themselves, be influenced by each other. The little boy, with his tambourine, would be a sad companion for the little girl, who was so well provided with toys, and the little beggar could not but be benefited by the presence of a little girl who was so well provided with everything he could want.

The children looked at each other for a few moments, and then the little girl said, "Come, Tony, let us go out and see the little boy playing his tambourine." Tony was not in the habit of being very ready to do what his sister proposed, but he was tired of being in the house, and so he followed her out of the room and down the stairs, and they came to the door just as the little boy was passing. The little girl said, "Do you like music?" The little boy said, "I don't know, I don't think I do, I like to see people dance." "Why, don't you like to dance?" "I don't know, I never danced much." "Why, don't you like to see people dance?" "I don't know, I never saw much people dance
